WORMS

"I write to let you know how I appreciate your Cascarets. I commenced taking them last November and took two ten-cent boxes and passed a tapeworm 14 ft. long. Then I commenced taking them again, and Wednesday, April 4th, I passed another tapeworm 28 ft. long and over a thousand small worms. Thanks to my taking Cascarets I didn't know I had a tapeworm. I always had a small appetite."

FIRST TO ADORN HALL

Woman's Statue Among Notables at Capitol.

FRANCES E. WILLARD

FOR YEARS NATIONAL PRESIDENT OF THE W. C. T. U.

Presentation by the State of Illinois—Ceremonies Attending Acceptance to Occur Tomorrow.

The first statue of a woman to be given a place in statutory hall in the national Capitol will be unveiled tomorrow afternoon. It is a heroic figure of the late Frances E. Willard, of the state of Illinois, renowned the world over as the head of the Woman's Frances E. Willard Statue.

(Photographed by a Staff Photographer.)

Christian Temperance Union and for her great work in behalf of purity of life. Illinois has seen fit to select Miss Willard's statue to fill the remaining place open to it in statutory hall. The act of the state legislature under which the work was executed was approved by the governor February 28, 1899, and renewed in 1903.

No better eulogy of the life of Frances E. Willard has been written than is the brief statement of the esteem in which she is held by her native state contained in the bill appropriating $9,000 for the statue. After reciting the names of a number of the state's most prominent and best men—including Grant, Logan, Lincoln, Douglas, Trumbull and Shields—the preamble continues:

"The fame of none of these was more heroically won or more richly deserved than that of one of our deceased citizens, illustrious for historic renown and distinguished for civic service in Europe and America, in a new, unexplored field of Christian endeavor, the effect of whose efforts and achievements and the influence of whose spotless life and sublime example has been so marked that the world has wondered and admired the author, organizer and advocate of purity and temperance. Illinois' most illustrious deceased citizen, Frances E. Willard, the uncrowned queen of purity and temperance, whose ashes repose in peace on the shores of Lake Michigan, at Evanston, Ill. Her life, like that of her Redeemer, was devoted to the spiritual welfare of mankind, and the world at large has been materially benefited by her prayers and sacrifices.

"Radiant with a halo of all the virtues, her face, shone with the light of intelligence. Her marvelous abilities energized all around and about her, while her gentleness, tact and self-sacrificing spirit calmed every storm that rose in the councils which were graced and blessed by her presence.

"Her grand life is a beacon light to the good and the true of all sexes, races and creeds in the civilized world, and her wonderful achievements are lights and landmarks on the cliffs of fame, which will for all time illumine the paths of millions of women wherever civilization has a footing, which is where woman is duly appreciated."

Ceremonies of Acceptance.

The exercises connected with the acceptance of the statue by Congress will occur tomorrow in the Senate at 3 p.m., and in the House at 4 p.m. The Senate exercises are in charge of Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, who will be the first speaker, followed by Senators Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, J. P. Dolliver of Iowa and Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois. In the House Mr. George E. Foss of Illinois has arrangements in charge, and Mr. Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, Mr. Henry T. Rainey, Mr. Joseph V. Graft and other members of the Illinois delegation will also make addresses.

The statue is of Carrara marble, a little more than life size, and represents Miss Willard standing in an easy, graceful position. The right arm is slightly extended, the hand resting upon a reading desk; the left arm is at her side with a few pages of manuscript in the hand. The pose of the head is said to be very lifelike as Miss Willard appeared when looking out upon an audience. The face is regarded as strong and spiritual.

The pedestal is of Vermont marble and bears the following inscription:

"Ah! it is women who have given the costliest hostages to fortune. Out into the battle of life they have sent their best loved, with fearful odds against them. Oh, by the dangers they have dared; by the tears of patient watching over beds where helpless children lay; by the income of ten thousand prayers wafted from their gentle lips to heaven, I charge you give them power to protect along life's treacherous highway those whom they have so loved."

Frances E. Willard. Presented by the state of Illinois, February 27, 1905.

Memorial Medal.

Miss Anna A. Gordon, chairman of the state commission under whose direction the statue was made, is having a memorial medal made for distribution among children and young people in commemoration of this historic event. The medal was designed by John F. Kennedy, and will be given to children of the city who will be given an opportunity to visit Statuary Hall Friday.

Arrangements are being made for them to march under protective escort to the Capitol building and through Statuary Hall, where each child will place a flower near the statue. Flowers will be contributed by the District of Columbia W. C. T. U. Miss Gordon will give a medal to each boy and girl in the procession.

The commissioners appointed by Governor Tanner to attend to securing the statue were Miss Anna A. Gordon, Evanston; J. J.
Mitchell, Chicago; Mrs. Susanna M. D. Fry, Evanston; W. R. Jewell, Danville, and Mrs.
Mary E. Metzgar, Moline. The commission to execute the statue was awarded to these commissioners by Miss Mears.

Sketch of Miss Mears.

Helen Farnsworth Mears was born in Oshkosh, Wis. While only a little child she began to model in putty and coal tar. Before the age of nine years she modeled an original head of Apollo which was exhibited in the county fair. The prize of $300 offered by the Milwaukee Women's Club for the best work of art by a Wisconsin woman that should be exhibited at the Chicago exposition was won by Miss Mears with a symbolic figure of Wisconsin which later was placed in the rotunda of the capitol in Madison. Up to this point the only professional instruction Miss Mears had received was confined to about six weeks at the Art Institute in Chicago, but she now came to New York, where she studied for a year and a half under Augustus St. Gaudens at the Art Students' League, before going abroad.

Miss Mears has been a pupil of many of the best sculptors, Messrs. St. Gaudens, Lorado Taft, Poesch, Damp, Charpentier, Collins and Merson, but possesses a distinct artistic individuality. After two years of study with Augustus St. Gaudens she was called to assist him in serious work in his New York and Paris studios. In Paris her student career was attended with the same success that had characterized it in America.
She carried off medals at the different schools, her instructors pronouncing her strong enough in her work to compete with the men and in 1897 she exhibited in the Salon. In 1898 she made a delightful tour through Italy, remaining long enough in Rome and Florence to make a thorough study of the treasures in the different galleries, and on the completion of her third year in Europe, just as she was about returning home, her departure was delayed by the request from her old master, St.

Gaudens, that she return to Paris, where he had arrived, and assist him in his studio.

Several years ago she executed a marble statue of President G. S. Albee of the State Normal School, Oshkosh. President Albee was widely known in educational circles throughout the country, and the bust being an individual and characteristic piece of work, has been highly praised. Mr. St.
Gaudens has said of Miss Mears' work that it is as strong as a man's, and has, in addition, a subtle, intangible quality, exceedingly rare and spiritual. Miss Mears has now on hand a commission for two eight-foot lions to be placed at the entrance of the library in her old home at Oshkosh, Wis., and has just completed a large wall fountain in relief.

The board of commissioners had no hesitancy in inviting Miss Mears to undertake the Frances E. Willard statue after she submitted a sketch of her subject which fully proved her power to execute a portrait statue that would satisfactorily portray in marble the rare spiritual as well as intellectual strength of Frances E. Willard. The refined womanliness, the nobility and strength of character, the sweetness and simplicity and the intense yearning to help humanity which characterized Frances E.
Willard as educator, philanthropist and friend were so masterfully brought out, it is said, in Miss Mears' preliminary model, which as a portrait excelled the expectations of the commissioners.

Commemoration Meeting.

The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, many of whose leading officers and members plan to be in Washington to attend the exercises in Congress, will on the evening of Friday hold a national commemorative meeting in the Metropolitan M. E. Church, with a varied and interesting program. Mrs. Lillian M. N.
Stevens, national president, and the one who succeeded Frances E. Willard in this office, will preside, and Miss Gordon, chairman of the board of commissioners, will deliver an address. Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale will also deliver an address, and Prof. J. W. Bischoff will preside at the organ.
